Christmas Eve '23- WARM & Soggy

Tough Sleddin' for Santa?

…and not the skating type. Pic by Deb Minnick

By Mark Minnick

The winter weather on Christmas Eve Day didn't look or feel 'wintery' in the least this year. Gray, warm and cloudy, it rained all day with temps in the 50's and nary a snowflake (or snowplow) in sight. Ice fisherman are depressed. Snowmobile sales are down. Flights to Florida are canceled due lack of interest. Oh the humanity!

I swear I saw a couple of squirrels mucking around in miniature five-buckles and a frog laying eggs in a puddle. Finches at the bird feeder were using those little umbrellas you get in fancy drinks at high class bars. (Hey, I've never ordered a drink with an umbrella in it - others have told me about them. Swear to God.)

Anyway, what the heck was going on? Maybe all the years of the winter haters wishing that "It wasn't so cold and snowy" were finally being answered by the gods of winter. Or, Al Gore was right and I should've bought his carbon offsets. Uff da, who knows, then?

In the meantime, how was St. Nick going to get here with no snow or ice? It was starting to look a little touch and go for getting the gifts delivered to all of the good boys and girls in Cosmos. Even my little boy Ralphie was a tad worried. This was looking serious.

But just like the Who's in Whoville, Christmas showed up in all of it's wonderful majesty. (But unlike Whoville, Santa still got got us presents. Not complaining, we'll take 'em.)

It seems good old Santa Claus found a way to get through, despite the rough and tumble conditions. Quite the guy that ol' Santa, quite the guy. Thank you buddy.

NEWS FLASH!

Local claims,

Santa Installed Tires on Sleigh

By Local Chicken

I decided to rocket back from Neptune to celebrate Christmas in Cosmos this year. I wondered how the jolly old guy would handle the rain and lack of snow in Cosmos.

Sure enough, he did just like I saw him do in Florida or Australia; he threw on some good radials and didn't miss a beat. He's smart, duh.

For the non-believers, I took a pic for you; it's on the next page. Better believe next year, Buckaroo …….or no presents for you!

The Sleddin' is Never Too Tough for Santa

Local Chicken snapped this pic of Santa adapting to the warm winter conditions in Minnesota this year. Believe.

HE'S BACK!

By Mark Minnick

Walter Schmeling was back to see Santa for the 6th year in a row! Last year he swore off of the old ear lapper cap and camo jacket and just wore a t-shirt. But as you can see in the pic, it seems that plaid Minnisoda Chic is back in style with the young man. His dad figured he would probably wear that cap to his high school graduation.

Anyway, I inquired as to what he was going to ask Santa to bring him, but he wasn't talking. Then I mentioned something about the Grinch and he perked up immediately. It's his favorite Christmas cartoon! His mom mentioned that he may have watched it at least 20 times - so far.

So, if anybody sees him now after christmas, you'll have to ask him if he got what he asked Santa for. Maybe better also ask him where he gets his caps if you wanna be just as Minnisoda Chic as Walter. Uff da.

Hey, Elves Are Important Too!

Cosmos Community Club

The Cosmos Community Club hosted Santa Claus and all of his helpers on December 7th at Peace Lutheran Church in Cosmos. The temperature was about 50 degrees when Santa and his crew arrived in Cosmos. Good thing Santa came by Semi and not his sleigh!!!!

Around 130 children and adults attended the event. Over 100 hotdogs, 4 gallons of beans and lots of potato chips were served.

The Community Club would like to thank everyone that attended. A big Thank You to the Cosmos Lions, Cosmos Legion, Pan O Gold, Peace Lutheran Church, Santa and his Elf and to anyone else that helped make this event a huge success.

Ralphie Wrote A Letter to Santa

Pic by cat mom Deb Minnick, article by cat dad, Mark

Little Ralphie finally took the time to write Santa this year. I told him that if he was on the naughty list, he would just get a bag of kitty litter. Hearing that, his eyes got pretty big.

So he got right to it, writing the jolly old guy a letter. He insisted that he was a good and thoughtful kitty then mentioned what he wanted for Christmas. Later, with the warm weather and rain, he too was worried too that Santa wouldn't get here. I reassured him everything would work out. As we all know, it did. Note: It's now obviously after Christmas and I can tell you that he received a new cat bed and a nice cardboard box. He was happy.

Dear Santa,

I tried really hard to be a good boy this year. Here's proof:

1. I didn't terrorize old Ted that much.
2. I refrained from sinking my claws into people's legs...most of the time.
3. I made a concerted effort not to walk in any cheesy potatoes, despite how good they taste and smell.
4. I didn't try to sneak outside much. I've heard the outdoors is overrated.
5. I've sworn off catnip, legal or not.

So, beings I am so good, here's what I want:

1. An electric blanket to burrow into.
2. A plush & comfy cat bed to nap in.
3. A new, super cool cardboard box.
4. A shock collar for a dog I know.
5. If you are not able to make the above requests in your workshop, then cash in large denominations would suffice.

From your favorite kitty,

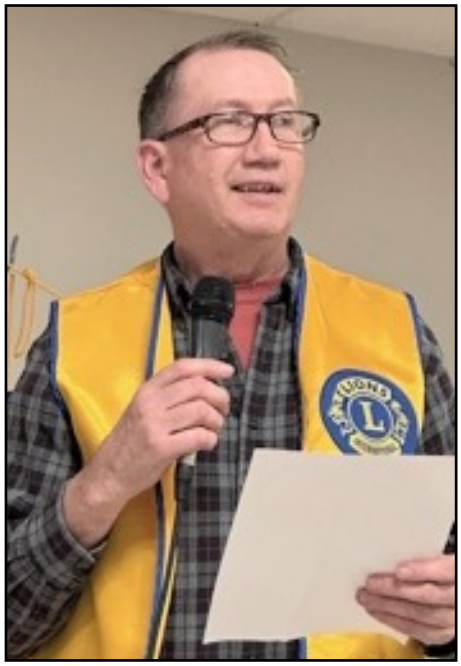

Ralphie

Cosmos Lions 2023 Wrap Up

Dale von Loh

Pic and article by Harold Weseloh

The Lions of Zone 9 met with the Lions District Governor for their annual gathering of fellowship and food Monday, November 27 at the Eagles Club in Litchfield.

The Cosmos Lions are one of the clubs (the others being Cedar Mills, Kingston, Atwater, Grove City, Darwin and Litchfield in the zone). Part of the evening focuses on what the larger group does, but a part of the meeting allows clubs to report on what they have accomplished locally.

Cosmos Lions vice-president Dale von Loh had the extreme honor to expound on what the Cosmos club accomplished in 2023 and the local Lions took a back seat to no other club in its activity reports.

The Cosmos Lions can look with pride—notice the animal kingdom reference—on what they accomplished and supported in the previous 12 months. In addition to the volunteer labor the club provided more than $18,000 to local recipients and projects. Von Loh during his talk ticked through quite a list, below;

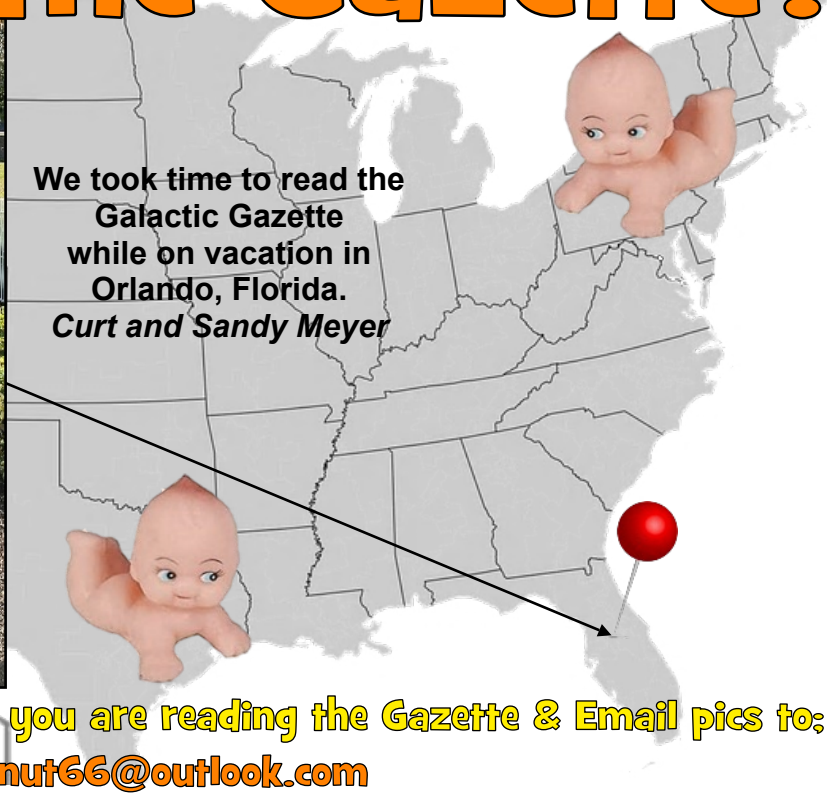

-The List-

- Cleaning road ditches twice (a mile east and a mile west of Cosmos)
- Installed a new 'Welcome to Cosmos' sign in the city park. Recently had Dahlk Electric dig in lights for day and night viewing
- Supported four students of the former Cosmos school district in post-secondary pursuits with scholarships
- Donated to eight of the Lions International projects (Lions Eye Bank, Leader Dogs, MN Vision Foundation, Lions Hearing Research, Diabetes Research, Can-do Canines, LCIF (International relief, District 5M4 Hearing Foundation
- Sponsored the fireworks for the Space Festival
- Hosted it's 51st annual Labor Day Softball Tournament
- Sponsored the disk golf tourney during the Space Festival
- Underwrote the Kids Pedal Pull at the Space Festival
- Donated to the Santa Claus visit in December
- Replaced steel doors at the concession stand at the ballpark
- Fed hundreds at the pork chop feed held in conjunction with the fire department
- Donated $1,500 to this very publication (ink ain't cheap)
- Donated to the ACGC football team
- Supported Danielson Hustlers 4-H club who helped with the pork chop feed
- Donated the Cosmos Peewee softball league
- Donated to Cosmos Senior Citizens club
- Donated to Meeker Food Shelf

A Heated Minnow Pail? Who Knew?

Spitty Martin was cleaning out a shed and came upon an old grubby heated (heated?) minnow bucket. (Something my wife refers to as junk.) He then called me to ask if I wanted the old thing for my, ahem, fishing stuff 'collection'. I said "Sure, what the heck."

I had never heard of such a thing as a "Heated minnow bucket". After Spitty dropped it off, I took it apart, looked it over and was impressed. Wanting more info, I went to the Googles. By gosh, I was a little surprised to find out as much info as I did.

The "Clipper" was sold/distributed by the E. L. Walstedt & Company, Minneapolis, MN. These 'hi-tech at the time' minnow buckets were designed with a kerosene 'heater' (a small kerosene lamp reservoir with a wick) mounted inside and off to the side in the big section. The smaller section was filled with water and of course, minnows. Making sure the reservoir had kerosene in it, you would turn up the wick and light it with a match, much like the kerosene lamps used to provide light in American homes before electricity arrived. Word has it that fisherman would warm their hands on the outside of the bucket. Funny the minnows didn't boil. Fish soup…Yay!

I'm going to try and clean it up without ruining what's left of the label. It should make a nice, vintage conversation piece or at least something to talk about.

TIDBITS

By Rick Nordin

Greetings and Happy New Year! I hope you had a wonderful Christmas season and rang in the new year with family and friends. It sure has been fun witnessing the Christmas season unfold with the grand kids ages: 7, 5, 3 and 1.

Someone recently asked me, can you believe the increased prices on everything? It affects every area of the economy. As most of you know, I own and operate First State Agency in Lake Lillian. We have been protecting people's assets with insurance products since 1965. You may have noticed your insurance premiums going up over the last year. We are currently in what is called a "hard" market in the insurance industry.

Due to the massive natural disaster claims, the cost of that repair, increased construction and material costs on homes and autos the last few years, we are seeing significantly increased premiums on renewals. All the companies that are "staying in the market place" are increasing rates, initiating moratoriums such as not accepting new business or will only take new business with a minimum $2500 deductible and require both the auto and homeowners.

We have been preparing many quotes for auto and homeowners for those who have seen these increased rates at renewal and are shopping around. We have been able to help many (but not all) people. If you want a free quote, please give us a call at 320-664-4444.

On the flip side, we have not seen savings and CD rates this high for many decades. Hang in there. We historically have a very resilient economy and we will make through this.

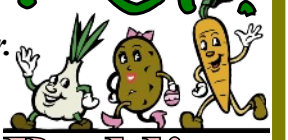

Have a great January 2024.

Apple Bread Pudding

By Grace Kamrath

Happy New Year to all folks in the Cosmos area. The following recipe is a good one for fall and winter. Which at the moment (the winter part anyway) seems to have eluded us. Anyway, if you have any leftover buns or bread from Christmas, this would be a great way to use them.

Bread Pudding

- 4 c. soft bread bread cubes (push lightly into cup to measure)
- 2 c. thinly sliced apples (you can leave skin on)
- 1/4 c. raisins
- 1 c. packed brown sugar
- 1 3/4 c. milk
- 1/4 c. butter
- 1 t. cinnamon
- 1/2 t. vanilla
- 2 eggs beaten

Vanilla Sauce

- 1/2 c. sugar
- 1/2 c. packed brown sugar
- 1/2 c. half and half or real cream
- 1/2 c. butter
- 1 t. vanilla

Directions for bread pudding

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease a 10 x 6 pan. In large bowl, combine bread cubes, apples and raisins. In small saucepan combine brown sugar, milk and butter. Cook until butter is melted. Pour over the bread mixture in bowl. Let stand for 10 minutes. Then stir in the cinnamon, beaten eggs and vanilla. Pour into greased baking dish. Bake for 40 to 50 minutes or until contents set and apples are tender. I many times put this pan in a larger pan containing water to bake.

Directions for vanilla sauce

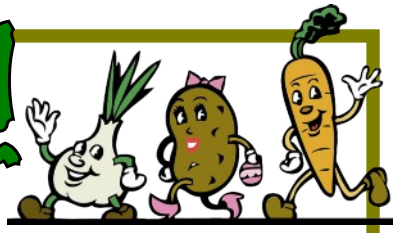

In small saucepan combine sugar, brown sugar, cream and butter. Cook until mixture boil, stirring occasionally. Stir in vanilla. Serve sauce warm over bread pudding. That's all!!

TIMBUCK2'S HOT SAUCE

Here is a series of hot sauces called "TIMBUCK2'S" made by one of Cosmos' own; Tim Olson. (Cool product name, btw.) He had quite the display at the craft show held at the Cosmos City Center in November. Being a hot sauce guy, I decided to grab three of them to try for myself.

I have a self enforced rule to not have too many hot sauce open at once. So, as it were, I had to finish a couple that were already in the fridge before I tried Tim's. I finally got a chance to open up Tim's Tabasco variety, right before Christmas and it was certainly worth the wait.

Not a complex sauce, just simple and clean, with a nice robust heat. I've already tried it on my morning eggs, pizza, burritos and spaghetti. Went great on all of them. Gonna try it in my next batch of chicken soup. Good stuff Maynard!

A very unique product made right here in Cosmos. If I was you, I'd be getting ahold of this guy so you can try some yourself. Don't be afraid, it's good for ya! You becha!

Nice Work Tim!

Fishwife Tinned Seafood

Number One Son Tyler got me this canned fish sampler pack for Christmas. The Fishwife Tinned Seafood Company was started by two gals that wanted to produce quality and tasty canned or "Tinned" seafood: Comparable or even better than European company's products.

I think the artwork and info/advertising on each can's box is just hilarious. I hope the fish is just as good. (No I haven't tried any yet, but I will when the wife is out of the house. "Uff da, that'll stink" she insists.) I'll report back on this canned delicacy after I sample some. Stay tuned.

NASA's Juno to Get Close Look at Jupiter's Volcanic Moon Io on Dec. 30

This image revealing the north polar region of the Jovian moon Io was taken on October 15 by NASA's Juno. Three of the mountain peaks visible in the upper part of image, near the day-night dividing line, were observed here for the first time by the spacecraft's JunoCam.

Image of the Juno Spacecraft that is orbiting Jupiter

This orbiter has performed 56 flybys of Jupiter and documented close encounters with three of the gas giant's four largest moons.

Article and images courtesy NASA/JPL-Caltech/SwRI/MSSS, Image processing by Ted Stryk

NASA's Juno spacecraft will on Saturday, Dec. 30, make the closest flyby of Jupiter's moon Io that any spacecraft has made in over 20 years. Coming within roughly 930 miles (1,500 kilometers) from the surface of the most volcanic world in our solar system, the pass is expected to allow Juno instruments to generate a firehose of data.

"By combining data from this flyby with our previous observations, the Juno science team is studying how Io's volcanoes vary," said Juno's principal investigator, Scott Bolton of the Southwest Research Institute in San Antonio, Texas. "We are looking for how often they erupt, how bright and hot they are, how the shape of the lava flow changes, and how Io's activity is connected to the flow of charged particles in Jupiter's magnetosphere."

A second ultra-close flyby of Io is scheduled for Feb. 3, 2024, in which Juno will again come within about 930 miles (1,500 kilometers) of the surface.

The spacecraft has been monitoring Io's volcanic activity from distances ranging from about 6,830 miles (11,000 kilometers) to over 62,100 miles (100,000 kilometers), and has provided the first views of the moon's north and south poles. The spacecraft has also performed close flybys of Jupiter's icy moons Ganymede and Europa.

"With our pair of close flybys in December and February, Juno will investigate the source of Io's massive volcanic activity, whether a magma ocean exists underneath its crust, and the importance of tidal forces from Jupiter, which are relentlessly squeezing this tortured moon," said Bolton.

Now in the third year of its extended mission to investigate the origin of Jupiter, the solar-powered spacecraft will also explore the ring system where some of the gas giant's inner moons reside.

Picture This: All three cameras aboard Juno will be active during the Io flyby. The Jovian Infrared Auroral Mapper (JIRAM), which takes images in infrared, will be collecting the heat signatures emitted by volcanoes and calderas covering the moon's surface. The mission's Stellar Reference Unit (a navigational star camera that has also provided valuable science) will obtain the highest-resolution image of the surface to date. And the JunoCam imager will take visible-light color images.

JunoCam was included on the spacecraft for the public's engagement and was designed to operate for up to eight flybys of Jupiter. The upcoming flyby of Io will be Juno's 57th orbit around Jupiter, where the spacecraft and cameras have endured one of the solar system's most punishing radiation environments.

"The cumulative effects of all that radiation has begun to show on JunoCam over the last few orbits," said Ed Hirst, project manager of Juno at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Southern California. "Pictures from the last flyby show a reduction in the imager's dynamic range and the appearance of 'striping' noise. Our engineering team has been working on solutions to alleviate the radiation damage and to keep the imager going."

Note: This flyby will be completed by the time you read this. Hopefully NASA will publish the new images in time for the next Gazette. Stay tuned Buckaroos. Editor, Mark Minnick

UCAP Prepares for Record Breaking Season

It's time to pull together all the year-end tax documents and enter a bunch of numbers in hopes of getting a refund. For low to moderate income families, who can't afford tax prep fees, United Community Action Partnership (UCAP) is again offering free tax preparation clinics in Hutchinson, Jackson, Marshall, Redwood Falls, Willmar and Windom. But it takes a lot of people with big hearts to make it happen.

"Our tax clinics are volunteer driven," said Michelle Jensen, UCAP's Family Services Manager. "They can't happen without the help of people in our communities."

UCAP offers tax clinics in partnership with the United Way of Southwest MN, the MN Department of Revenue, the Internal Revenue Service, and other community partners to ensure that taxpayers receive their full tax credits and refunds. People don't need tax knowledge to volunteer.

"We provide training so that anyone can become an IRS certified tax preparer," Jensen said. "But we also need volunteers to greet people and help make sure they are prepared for their appointment."

Training for the volunteer tax site positions are scheduled to take place in several locations throughout the month of January. Anyone who is interested in learning more can contact Michelle Jensen.

Tax clinics have been growing over the last several years, and that trend is expected to continue this year, as new MN tax credits are available and more people will need to file to claim those credits. Jensen hopes that enough people will step forward this year to keep up with what will likely be record-breaking demand.

"A few hours of someone's time can, literally, put thousands of dollars back into the households that need it most."

If you are interested in learning more about this high-impact program that served more than 2,200 households last year or would like to sign up to volunteer, please contact;

Danielson Hustlers 4-H Club Report

The December meeting of the Danielson Hustlers 4-H Club was held on December 10 at the Grove City Community Center. The meeting was called to order and the pledges were recited. Roll Call was "What is your favorite Christmas tradition?" There was no Secretary's Report, but the Treasurer's Report was given.

Under Old Business we discussed the Thanksgiving Basket that was given to a local family. Thanks to the Isaac Lund family for buying the groceries and delivering the basket.

We also discussed the family that the club adopted for Christmas. Several members went shopping for gifts for the children of the family. Thanks to the members who volunteered to do this.

Several members participated in Atwater's Passport to Christmas celebration. The club had a face painting booth, and many kids enjoyed having their faces painted.

Under New Business, a winter outing for the club members was discussed. A committee will meet to discuss possible activities and report back to the club at the January meeting.

The meeting was adjourned at 3:00 p.m. After the meeting the members played different Christmas games, had a gift exchange, and enjoyed a potluck dinner. It was a great afternoon!

The next meeting will be held on Sunday, January 14, at the Grove City Community Center.

Respectfully submitted,
Lauran Arndt

Snow Removal & Winter Parking

It may be Cosmos . . .
but it ain't Rocket Science.

By Mark Minnick

Despite the unseasonably warm weather, eventually Cosmos is going to get snow that is going to have to be cleared from the state highways, city streets and parking areas.

Questions come up every year; "Can I park on the street? Where can I move the snow to from my yard and driveway? How much or how little snow fall determines if the streets are going to be cleared?"

So, I'm going to go through the ordinances and give the reader my take on each section as simply as I can.

Note: Be aware that I am writing about these winter related ordinance's as best I understand them. In other words, "My opinion" from the perspective of a newsletter editor and city resident, not necessarily that of a city council member. Also, I am not a lawyer. I've included a copy of the ordinances on the next page for you to read for yourself. Enjoy.

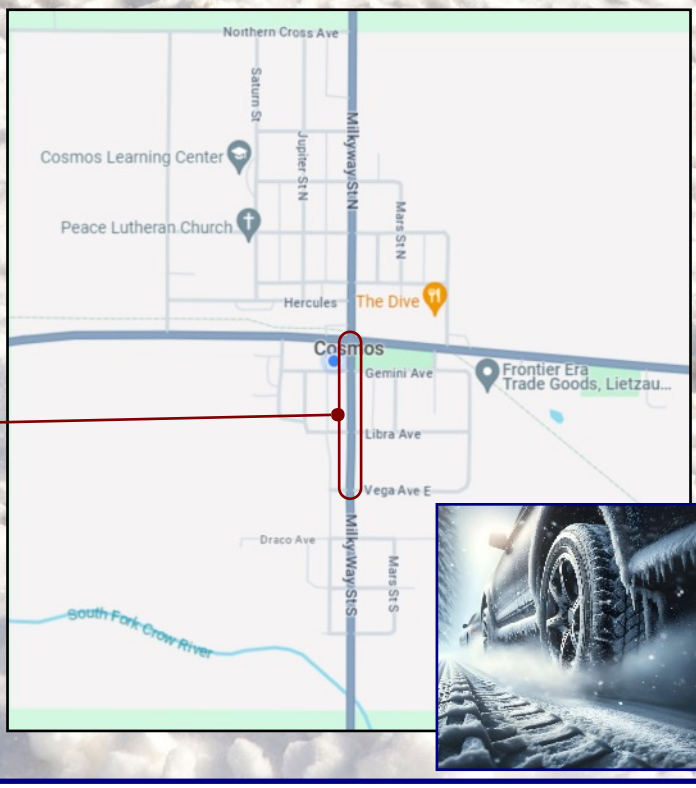

Parking During Snow Removal

My Take

1. Don't park on any public street or area until all of the snow has been removed. You can't leave your vehicle parked on main street between Astro Blvd, (Hwy 7) and Vega Avenue between 2:00 AM and 6:00 AM of any day.
2. You can't move or push snow from your private property, driveway, sidewalk, etc. onto public property (i.e. parking lots, alleys, streets, etc.) unless authorized by city personnel to do so.
3. County deputies or city officials can issue a parking violation ticket to the owner of the vehicle. They can also have your illegally parked vehicle towed if deemed necessary, at the owners expense.

So, to recap - Don't park on the street, period. It may snow. Don't dump your snow on city property or streets. If you don't want a citation or your vehicle towed, don't do the first two. Bing, bang, boom...There.

Cosmos City Ordinances Relating to Snow Removal

72. 08 PARKING DURING SNOW REMOVAL.
A) No person shall park or leave a motor vehicle or trailer on the streets, highways, alleys or public parking lots within the city until snow maintenance operations have been completed on the streets, highways, alleys or public parking lots.

B) No person shall park or cause to leave unattended any motor vehicle on that part of Milky Way Street, lying between Astro Boulevard and Vega Avenue, between the hours of 2:00 a. m. and 6:00 a. m. of any day.

C) No person shall place, or cause to be placed, any snow from private property onto any public property, including streets, highways, alleys, boulevards, medians, sidewalks, parking lots, parks or any other public property or part thereof unless authorized by the City Maintenance Department, Chief of Police or their duly authorized agents.

D) The Chief of Police or his duly authorized representatives shall have the authority to remove or cause to be removed any motor vehicles or trailers parked in violation of this section. The removal shall be to city parking facilities and shall be at the owner' s expense, which shall be assessed in addition to any fines or other penalties imposed by this section.

E) Any police officer who shall observe any motor vehicle parked in violation of the provisions of this section may attach to the vehicle a notice stating that it has been parked in violation of this section and instructing the owner or operator thereof to report to the duly authorized representative of the City Council in regard to the violation. The owner or operator shall pay the representative a fee as set from time to time by resolution. Failure to pay the penalty within five days of the violation shall constitute a misdemeanor and shall be punishable as set forth in § 10. 99. 1993 Code, § 4. 605) (Ord. 53, passed 4- 14- 1983)

72. 09 REMOVAL OF VEHICLES.
The Chief of Police may, under the provisions hereof, cause automobiles parked illegally in violation of these sections to be towed to a position of safe keeping and the owner or owners of the automobiles, prior to having the same returned to him or them, shall pay the reasonable towing charge as may be charged therefore or as fixed by motion of the City Council; the non-payment of the towing charge shall give rise to a lien in favor of the city for the amount, with the same force and effect as other towing charge liens described and set forth in this section. The lien shall be enforced, as are all liens under this section, and the same force and effect as set forth in M. S. § 514. 67, as amended from time to time. 1993 Code, § 4. 606) (Ord. 53, passed 4- 14- 1983)

72.98 VIOLATIONS.
Any person violating any provision of §§ 72. 02 through 72. 06 shall be guilty of a petty misdemeanor and fined as provided in § 10. 99. 1993 Code, § 4. 603(F)) (Ord. 53, passed 4- 14- 1983)

Diary of Randy & Judy Schiro feature in "Farm and Ranch" magazine

On Swine Time Now. Judy and Randy Schiro who spent a busy diary month adjusting to new routines after switching stock on their former dairy farm. The Schiro family, Judy and Randy, and family members, Andrea, Amber and Aaron were featured in The Farm & Ranch Living Magazine in the Dec/Jan issue under a special feature section "The Way We Live..." This section tells how some people seem to feel that agriculture is pretty much the same from farm to farm and ranch to ranch across the country. Nothing could be further from the truth, as evidenced by the month-long, day-by-day diaries of the four families featured. Other families featured were from Maryland, California and Texas.

They've gone from pails to pigs on farm in Minnesota

(Editors note: The following article appeared in the Dec/Jan issue of the Farm & Ranch Living Magazine with editorial office at Greendale, WI. and permission was given to reprint the story.)

Profile: Randy Schiro farms the same land his grandfather did--but he and his wife, Judy, recently made a dramatic change on their three-generation-old dairy near Cosmos, Minnesota. Just a month before beginning this diary, they farrowed their first pigs after electing to participate in the dairy herd buy-out program. The Schiros grow hay, corn and oats along with cash crops of wheat and soybeans, and they also raise about 50 steers. Randy and Judy have three small children: Andrea, 6; Amber, 3; and Aaron, 1 1/2. Judy kept this diary.

Oct. 1--Remember the old joke that goes, "Until last month I'd never even seen one....and now I am one"? Well, it could almost apply to us!

Our state of Minnesota has long been up among the leaders in hog production. But it's also been a top dairy state for many years. And as late as a few weeks ago, Randy and I began and ended each day by milking our 35 cows.

That all changed just last July when we sold every one of our cows, heifers and heifer calves in the dairy herd buy-out program and began raising hogs instead. The first time either of us ever saw pigs being born was last month when our gilts started farrowing!

So you're joining us at an interesting time for us and for our farm. We consider ourselves to be a pretty typical small-time farm family, and we wouldn't want our three youngsters to grow up anywhere else. We're willing to do whatever it takes to keep farming.

Much as I've grown to love this way of life, I was a "town girl" for 21 years before marrying Randy. I learned quicky, though. The day we returned from our honeymoon, I got "broke in" by butchering chickens! Now I raise about 100 broilers.

Randy, on the other hand, grew up on this farm...and so did his dad. Pat (that's what we all call Randy's dad) moved here as a boy in 1928. These days Pat and Randy's mom, Elaine, are retired to a new home on a small portion of the farm that adjoins the city limits. They've got a good view of the farm, and Pat helps us out as much as he can.

Today, that meant helping haul soybeans to the elevator. We've just finished combining them, and the crop's so good we couldn't fit them all into the bin here on the farm.

Good news at evening chores, too! We found 11 new pigs, and they seem to be doing fine. All the same, we set up a heat lamp for them--our Minnesota nights have started to get cool, and we don't want to take any chances with our new herd.

Oct. 2--After chores, we weaned the first half of our pigs and spent most of the day moving them. One thing we've learned in a hurry is that pigs don't chase quite the same as cows....they sure are faster!

We also rearranged living space a bit. Up until today, the little pigs had the whole barn to run in --and did they ever. They stuck their noses in every nook and cranny.

Grandma Elaine kept the kids busy while the pigs kept us busy. She made a corn shock, and they decorated it with squash, pumpkins and Indian corn. It really looks nice!

Oct. 3--Oh, what a noise in the barn! We moved the sows into an old calf pen yesterday--this morning they stood by the gate squealing as loud as they could for their little ones, and the little ones squealed right back.

With the beans gone, Randy fertilized the fields where we'll plant corn in the spring. Pat chisel-plowed until a hose sprung a leak.

Oct 4--Sunday. After a couple days of cold and wind, the weather turned beautiful today. Temperature climbed all the way up into the 80's...that's warm for Minnesota this time of year--and just about any place else, I guess!

After church, we all sat down to a big Sunday dinner of steak, mashed potatoes, corn and cole slaw, with ice cream for dessert. Then Randy attended a church meeting in the evening. He's on the committee that's looking for a new pastor for our church--we've had an interim pastor since our former pastor left about 4 months ago.

Randy's also on our church's Sunday school committee, and I'm a Sunday school teacher helper.

Oct. 5--What a difference a day makes! The temperature on this blue Monday never got past 50. Then this afternoon a few chillly showers also drifted by, making it seem colder yet.

The sows and our little squealers were settled down by this morning. Randy visited a neighbor and bought some shell corn for pig feed.

We grow our own corn, but we pick it all on the ear for the cattle. We used to grind it for the cows, and they did real well on that roughage. So we'll do the same with our steers.

Several of our fields are being tiled this month, and the tilers had a rough start when they moved in today--they hit a few big rocks. (What would a farm be without those, right?) After that, though, they made pretty good time.

Oct. 6--Another litter of 11 healthy pigs this morning. This month's getting off to a good start!

After chores, Randy spent most of the day with the tilers. Meanwhile, the kids helped me dig the potatoes and onions from my garden. That garden's just about empty now except for the carrots and they'll have to be dug soon, too.

Oct. 7--Our eldest--Andrea, 6--was awake extra early this morning to get "all dolled up". She's in kindergarten, and today school pictures were being taken.

Andrea goes to school full days on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and she's adjusted well. Actually, I think the first few days of school were harder on "Mom"--it was tough to send by "baby" off so soon!

Oct. 8--The tilers finished up today so Randy got back to the chisel-plowing.

I went to Hutchinson, about 18 miles to the southeast, to get a salt block and vitamins for our calves. We can get a few things in town at Cosmos, but for most supplies we have to go to Hutchinson.

Since I was there anyway, I "cheated" on dinner and picked up some fried chicken and potato salad. (We all deserve a break once in a while!) But I made up for it with supper tonight by cooking one of our favorites--pork chops with gravy, baked potatoes, corn and cole slaw.

"We'd never seen a pig born--until our first one arrived!"

Distribution wire for cable tv set for January 18 in Cosmos

The North American Cable Systems of Hector are happy to announce that they plan to begin the construction of the distribution wire for the Cosmos cable TV system on January 18th. They already have the headend building in place, the antenneas hung on the water tower and the earth station satellite receiving dish erected in the Cosmos City Park.

One change in the program line-up, which has been brought about by the fact that KCMT, Alexandria, is now virtually a carbon copy of WCCO, Minneapolis. When you receive your cable, you will however notice that the satellite channel TDC (The Discovery Channel) has been added in place of KCMT, "I am convinced that the Discovery channel will have a much greater appeal for the majority of our customers than channel KCMT since it has become a duplicate of WCCO," stated RIchard W. Penkert, Vice President of the Company.

Gilbert Radloff, Cosmos Lions Club member, presenting a check in the amount of $480 to Cosmos City Librarian, Branda Zins. The money will be used to purchase some large print books, books for teens or young adults, putting in some new book shelves which are needed and to purchase other new book selections. The money was made available from a fund raiser the Cosmos Lions Club had sponsored.

Byron and Dorie Higgin injured in accident near Litchfield

A former Cosmos resident, Byron Higgin and his wife, Dorie, were both injured last Wednesday evening when their car collided with a semi-truck and trailer east of Litchfield on Highway 12 at about 6:55 p.m.

Both Byron and Dorie Higgin were taken to the Meeker County Memorial Hospital in Litchfield. Dorie was later transferred to St. Paul-Ramsey Medical Center, where she is listed in critical but stable condition. Injuries sustained in the accident were 2 broken legs, a broken hip, seven broken ribs and a punctured lung.

Byron Higgin was discharged from the Meeker County Hospital on Thursday in satisfactory condition. Driver of the truck, Jerry K. Kruger, 30, of Litchfield was not injured.

Cards and notes of cheer can be sent to Dorie Higgin at St. Paul Ramsey Hospital, Room 610, 640 Jackson St., St. Paul, Mn 55101.

Cosmos Legion, Auxiliary meet Monday

The Cosmos Legion and Auxiliary will be meeting on Monday evening, January 11 at 8:00 p.m. at the Legion Meeting Room for their January meeting.

A total of 73 pints of blood were collected at the bloodmobile last Tuesday. Thank you Cosmos for making it a success.

Five first time donors coming in were, Tom Flemming, Bob Rusika, Janet Anderson, Shannon Larson, Moorehead, and Rick Anderson, Paynesville. Unfortunately there was also a very high 15% deferral rate due to the cold and flu season.

One gallon pins were given to Douglas Pearson, Jan M. Nelson, and Randa Berg, Stillwater. Two gallon pins were given to David Boelter, LaVonne Flemming and John Tewes.

A special "thanks" goes out to all our volunteers. This was a busy time of year but our workers were willing to give of their time.

Also special thanks to our area recruiters who do their job willingly and smoothly and to our workers during the day; to the Peace Lutheran Ladies for preparing and serving in our canteen; to the Meeker County ADA for supplying butter and cheese; to the Danielson Hustlers and Cosmos Comets 4-H Clubs for making and distributing posters, providing babysitters, and set-up/take down crews; to the Cosmos Legion for the use of their facilities and to the Cosmos Sun for their coverage.

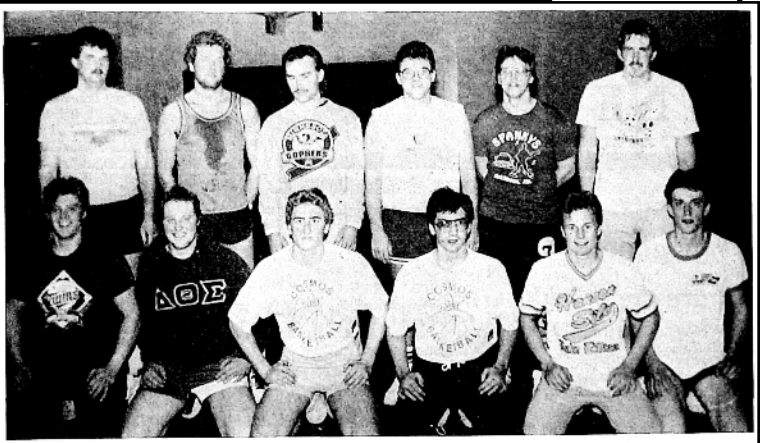

Helping with the babysitting duties at the Bloodmobile last Tuesday afternoon was Glenda Smith and Ann Schmeling.
